

P. L. L., (1860,) art. 11, sec. 112.

192. They may provide by ordinance for the regulation of party walls and partition fences; they may erect and regulate markets; provide for licensing and regulating the sweeping and burning of chimneys, and fixing the rates thereof within said city, and for ascertaining the size of chimneys built therein.

Ibid. sec. 113.

193. They may establish and regulate fire wards and fire companies, regulate and establish the size of bricks used in said city, and erect and regulate pumps in the streets, lanes and alleys.

Ibid. sec. 114.

194. They may restrain and prohibit gaming, and provide for licensing, regulating or restraining theatrical or other public amusements within the limits of the corporation.

Ibid. sec. 115.

195. They may pass ordinances to preserve the peace, order and quiet of the city; to prevent cock-fighting, horse racing and drunkenness; to prevent breaches of the Sabbath day; and to prevent swine and geese going at large, and for the proper police of said city.

Ibid. sec. 116.

196. They may pass ordinances to prohibit or restrain the keeping of bawdy-houses or houses of ill-fame within the limits of the city; to restrain and prohibit all loose and suspected persons from resorting to, frequenting, living or residing in any such bawdy-house or house of ill-fame, and to provide for fining and punishing all persons who shall keep, authorize or suffer to be kept, any such bawdy-house or house of ill-fame, and all loose and suspected persons who shall live or reside in, or resort to, or frequent any such bawdy-house or house of ill-fame; but no ordinance passed under this section shall impose a fine of more than fifty dollars, or authorize imprisonment for more than three months for any one offence.